

Beginning Experience New Zealand is a Charitable Trust and accepts donations to help continue its cause, one of the ways of donating is via a bequest through a Will.

When making your Will, after making sure that the members of your family are properly cared for, you may wish to consider making a bequest to the Beginning Experience New Zealand Charitable Trust.

You are free to place conditions on any bequest you may choose to make, but experience has proved that it is often easier to accept and use a bequest if it is expressed in as open a way as possible.

For example, if you choose to make a bequest to Beginning Experience New Zealand, your intention might be well expressed in these or similar words:

"...to the Beginning Experience Charitable Trust for the time being, to use for the general purposes as it sees fit."
